Translation.

To all men present and to come, Henry de Futor, Health in the Lord. Know ye, that I have given, &c., to William son of Alexander de Subosco in free marriage, with Agnes my daughter, all the land of the wood, without any retention, with all appurtenances, as is contained in the charter of Godit de Bullinges, the giver of this land. Without date.

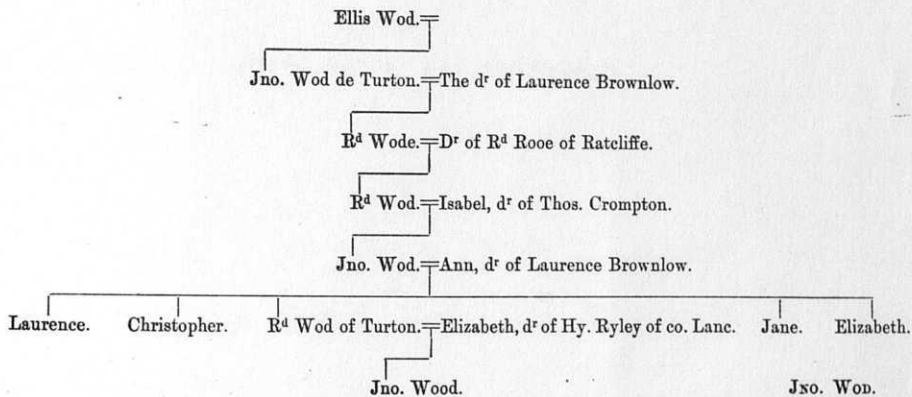

Ent'.

William Delwod, chaplain, granted, &c., to Alexander de Wod, all those lands [and] tenements, with the appurtenances, which I had, of the gift and feoffment of the same Alexander, in the vill of Turton, in one place which is called le Wod, and after the decease of the same Alexander, all the aforesaid tenements, with the appurtenances, to Henry, son of the aforesaid Alexander, and the heirs between the same Henry and Margery daughter of Henry de Bradshaw issuing. 19 Edward the Third.

Know all men, present and to come, that [I] Roger, son and heir of Alexander del Wod. 36 Edward the Third.

Know all men present and to come that I Roger, son of Alexander del Wode, have given, &c., to Margery de Coldecotes all lands, &c., in the vill of Turton. 37 Edward the Third.

The Arms on the Seal appear to be a bend fretty cotised, and a fleur-de-lys.

The above family appears to have been settled in Lancashire from a very early period. Notices of them occur in Sharples, Tong, and Bolton, in Harl. MS. 2112, Abstracts of Deeds, as follows:—

OBSERVATIONS UPON THE ARMS AND CRESTS.

THE coat-armour, Gules, three demi-savages (or wild-men) argent (? ppr.), holding clubs over the dexter shoulder, or, of which there is evidence of three centuries' usage by the family, is in the Herald's Visitation of Salop, made in the year 1623 (a copy of which is in the British Museum and is Harleian MS. 1396). A mullet, or, for difference, is on the shield here; this would indicate that Peter Woodd (2), who signed this Visitation, had then proved his ancestral right to this coat; that it was borne by the first Alexander Woodd, who came to Salop, he being third son of Lawrence, and that it was the coat of Lawrence Woodd of Holly Hall, Yorkshire.*

Some modern families of Wood in Shropshire have used these arms, of whom there are notes in the Miscellanea. Of these, two seem to be descendants of Woodd of Shynewood, although the connection and the right to the arms has never been shewn.

On the Will of Alexander Woodd (II.) and on some extant deeds executed by him, circa 1580, an acorn with oak-leaves is used as crest, or more probably badge. The acorn occurs in old families of De Bois, etc.

Ten years before the Visitation of 1623, Peter Woodd (2) executed deeds with the demi-savages on his seal.

In Harl. MS. No. 1483, fol. 50 (215), containing a large collection of Wood Family coats and crests, the same arms are assigned to Wood of Devon, a family of great antiquity.

Two younger Yorkshire families named Wood bear three whole savages, but no instance of the use of the demi-savages in Yorkshire has yet come to notice. No Wood Pedigree in the Visitations of that county contains any such coat, although we have seen that Peter Woodd lineally derived it from there; indeed, there is no Wood Pedigree in those Visitations which extends earlier than Lawrence Woodd's period, or so far within a generation. The nearest is that of Wood of West Lutton and Kildwick, Harl. 1487, 57, Her. Vis. York 1584, and they bore Sable, three fleurs-de-lis on a bend argent ("granted 1578" with crescent for difference). These arms are like those of del Wodde of Longley Hall, Almondbury,—the oldest known Yorkshire Pedigree of Wood, but which does not occur in the Visitations. It is believed that Lawrence Woodd of Holly Hall and Lawrence del Wodde of Longley Hall are connected. An account of this family will be found in the Miscellanea at the end of this collection.

* A correct representation of these arms, as in the Visitation Book, forms the Frontispiece of this Work. The arms occur in some MSS. which purport to be copies of the 1584 Visitation, but no Pedigree.

The College of Arms, of the present time, allows no crest to Woodd, and in the two original Visitations, there still preserved, there is no crest. (The later Visitation, 1663, omits the arms altogether.) Sir Bernard Burke, remarking on this absence of a crest, considers it a sign of antiquity of family; arms having been in use before crests. On the other hand, two crests have been in constant use by the family for over two hundred years, viz., a pelican in her piety or, and a demi-savage as on the shield.

These are on two old parchment rolls, which have been handed down through several generations to Mr. Charles H. L. Woodd of Roslyn, and now in his possession, they are reproduced in facsimile in the collections of book-plates belonging to his line. The will of George Basil Woodd of Richmond, dated 1783, is sealed with the demi-savage as crest.

The pelican, it will be seen, was of more general use in early times. It appears to have been the first crest used. The demi-savage has been adopted more frequently of late. The pelican is on seals to extant deeds at All Souls' College, Oxford, executed by Peter Woodd (2) in 1613, and others: that date is the earliest on which we find this crest and is ten years before the Visitation. The same is on the letter of Dr. Basil Woodd, now in the Public Record Office, dated 1640, concerning his brother Peter and the Ship Money. It is on the M.I. now remaining in Alberbury Church, near the Leighton Chapel, to Basil Woodd and his wife Abigail Leighton. This Basil Woodd's will is sealed with the same crest, as well as arms; so also is that of Alexander Woodd of Camberwell, dated 1724. Their brother Charles Woodd used the pelican, as seen by an old painting once belonging to his wife Sarah Barnham, which has been handed down to her descendants, a woodcut of which is produced among the arms of this branch.

These and other evidences of antiquity clearly establish a popular, if not technical, right to the present use. Further, in the British Museum, in three MSS. nearly two hundred years old—one of which purports to be a copy of the arms in Sir William Dugdale's Visitation of Salop in 1663, and another of those of Vincent's Salop Visitation 1623, the third a collection of Salop and other arms—are depicted those of Woodd of Shynewood and the White Abbey, in each case with the crest, a pelican or, vulning gules. A facsimile of each of these follows with the Copy Visitations to which they refer.

In addition to the eighteen quarterings allowed by the College of Arms to the descendants of the late Mr. Alexander Woodd, and shewn next to their Table, No. XIV., there are twelve further claimed by both branches of the family in virtue of the marriage of Lawrence Woodd, Tables I. and XII., and the heiress of Sir Philip Yonge of Caynton, co. Salop; these will be seen in the Yonge Pedigree, Table XI.

The descendants of George Basil Woodd and Gertrude Ballard are entitled to quarter the arms of Ballard quartering MOYSE, Table VIII., which are borne also by the descendants of Basil George Woodd and Mary Mitton, quartering in addition those of MITTON, Table VII. B., for which see the book-plates of Mr. Basil Thomas Woodd in the illustrations after his line.

WOODD of Christ Church, Oxon.: "Gules, three demy savages or wild men argent, holding clubs over their right shoulders or. This coat was borne by Basil Woodd, sometime a Captain in the King's army, and a great sufferer for his cause, in respect to which Dr. Fell, Dean of Christ Church, gave to him the head butlership of the said house. He dy'd at his house in Pennyfarthing Street, the 30th April 1684, and was buried near the grave of his father in S. Michael's Church in Oxford.

"MS. Ant. à Wood's Remarks de Com. Oxon., p. 153.—'He was brother of Thomas Woodd, sometime Fellow of Merton, and son of Basil Woodd, LL.D., sometime Fellow of All Souls' College, afterwards Chancellor of S. Asaph and Rochester, who dy'd in Lincoln College, and was buried in S. Michael's Church aforesaid, the last of November, 1644, which said Dr. Woodd was second son of Alexander Woodd of Shinewood, in the county of Salop. Note that . . . wife of Basil Woodd, Butler of Christ Church, dy'd at night, the 10th May, 1684, and was buried by her husband (who as is already said, dy'd about a fortnight before); her son, named . . . Woodd, a Chirurgeon, was buried by his grandfather in 1683.'"

Anthony à Wood's Athæni., Oxon., Ed. 1690, p. 814: "Basil Wood, All Souls' Coll. He was about this time (1640) Chancellor of St. Asaph and Rochester."

COPY OF INSCRIPTION ON A TOMB IN THE CHURCH OF BRIZE NORTON, OXFORDSHIRE.

Here under resteth the body of Eleanor Woodd, buried October 28, 1664, widow of the Right Worshipful Basil Woodd, Dr. of Law, Chancellor of Rochester, and High Commissioner, who was buried in St. Michael's Church, in Oxon., Nov. 30, 1644, and had issue Basill, Thomas, who being Capt., was slain in the King's Service at Preston, 1648; John, Ele., An., Eliz.

Here also under resteth the body of Esther Woodd, wife of Capt. Basill Woodd, Gentleman Pensioner to his Majesty, who was buried Mar. 29, 1664, and had issue 3 sons and 2 daughters.

"Justorum animæ in manu Dei sunt."

"THE CASE OF BASILL WOODD, DOCTOR OF LAW, AND CHANCELLOR OF ROCHESTER, AND HIS THREE SONS, CAPT. BASILL WOODD, CAPT. THOMAS WOODD, AND CORONET JOHN WOODD.*

"My father's Chancellorship and practise were taken away to the value of a thousand pounds per annum, and hee died in Oxford with the King. He was plundered of all his goods at his house at Greenwich, where he lived, to a considerable value, and afterwards I sould the house for foure hundred pounds to buy us bread, for I was forced to leave my employment, and to live in Wales, with my wife and children, till I had spent the greatest part of * Copied from a MS. in the possession of Basil Thomas Woodd, Esq., M.P., Conyngham Hall, Knaresborough, great-great-grandson of Dr. Basil Woodd, who has in his possession also the star of the mantle of the Order of the Garter, traditionally held as the parting memorial given to Capt. Basil Woodd by King Charles I. on the morning of his execution.

The Colonel Bowles named in the Memorial married Catherine Woodd, daughter of the said Basil Woodd, LL.D. A monument in Winchester Cathedral bears the following inscription:—

"A MEMORIALL.

"For this renowned Martialist Richard Bowles in Lincolnhshire, Colonel of a Ridgement (sic) of Foot of 1300, who for his gracious King Charles the First did wonders at the Battle of Edgehill. His last action, to omit all others, was at Alton in the county of Southampton; he was surprised by 5 or 6000 of the Rebels, which caused him then quartered to fly to the Church with neare foure score of his men, who there fought them for 6 or 7 hours, and then the Rebels breaking in upon him, he slew with his sword 6 or 7 of them, and then was slayne himself with 60 of his men about him, 1641. His gracious Sovereign hearing of his high commendations, in this patriotic expression said, 'Bring me a Mourning Scarffe, I have lost one of my best Commanders in this kingdom.'

"Alton will tell you of that Famous Fight
Which this man made, and bade the world good-night
His virtuous Life feared not Mortality—
His body must, his Virtues cannot dye.
Because his Blood was there so nobly spent.
This is his Tomb, that Church his Monument.

my stocke, then I returned home to my mother, she having kept me and my wife and children untill this time. And since I lived at home with my mother, I was had prisoner to Oxford, by Unton Crooke's command, who commanded the County troope, and there was forced to keepe a souldier with meat, drink, and money to waite on me, to my great charge. I went into the warres before Reading was taken, and was Lieutenant to Lieutenant-Colonel Bowle, my brother-in-law; and I was Captain-lieutenant afterwards to that worthy Colonel Sir William Butler, att Cropredy Bridge, in the Earle of Cleveland's Brigade, where hee lost his life, soo of course I had his troope till Truro Articles. I have received severall shots, one in my head, and one in my arme, which troubles mee many times. Severall horses were shot under mee, one at Runaway Hill, and another at Newbury Fight. I was a prisoner at Lancaster seven weeks, being taken at Torrington upon a charge, then commanding the party that first charged.

"My Brother Thomas went into the warres, when his Maiesty of blessed memory came first to Oxford. Hee was Fellow of Merton Colledge, and had been taken prisoner after he was turned out of his fellowship, then he went into flanders, and came in again with Sir Marmaduke Langdale, where, at Preston Towns End, by facing about, he saved his Generall by the losse of his own life. He was then Capt.-Lieutenant to Colonel Loader.

"My Brother John was Cornet to Colonel Stewart in the Earle of Cleveland's Brigade, he was taken prisoner at Cropredy Bridge, and afterwards received in the warres seven cuts in the head, which perced the skull, and continued in the service till Truro Articles. Since the return of our gracious Kinge, whom God preserve, he served in His Maiesty's Life Guard above seven months, and afterwards put by, for no other reason but that they were to many, which cost him a great deale, so that wee are much in debt. Our plate, horses, and money that wee spent upon Chirurgeons and armes, and other necessities in the warres, comes to a considerable summe, besides the loss of my ffather's chancellorship and practise, and the plundering of us in Oxfordshire, and the loss of our time, so that wee were brought to ruine for our Loyalty."

(This memorial was presented by the family to King Charles II. on the Restoration.)

FURTHER HISTORICAL NOTES RELATING TO BASIL WOODD, D.C.L.

In the Calendar of State Papers, Domestic Series, King Charles I. 'Commission' to the Ecclesiastical Court dated Dec. 17, 1633; among the names of the Commissioners is included that of Dr. Basil Woodd. His name occurs many times in the 'Acts of the Court,' e.g. in a Note of Draft Letter to him and another for Archbishop Laud, authorising them to visit Dulwich College.

On Feb. 6, 1640-1, Letter to him and other High Commissioners of the Courts Ecclesiastical, citing them to appear before a Committee of the House of Commons to be examined as to their jurisdiction.

Dr. Basil Woodd also appears as one of the Delegates in the "Parliamentary Return" of the Ecclesiastical Appeals made in the High Court of Delegates in 1634-41.

Worthy Sr

I crave pardon for this boldness of myne in adventuring to desier a favour where I have merited nothing. So it is that my Elder Brother Peter Woodd who is Undersheriff of Shropshire is somewhat straitened in that he cannot gather the Ship Money imposed upo' these parts by reason the Constables or High Constables doe not p'forme their office. His desire is that there be no pursevant sent downe for his high sheriff untill May day at w'ch time as by his l're to me my brother will come up and bring part of the money with him and hopeth to gather it up all before the end of Michaelmas Terme and to pay it in as is expected: When he cometh up w'ch will be upon May day as he writeth he shall wayte upon yow and give yow a just account of what he hath done and I hope he will shew himself to be an honest man as his reputation hath bene amongst those who best know him. ## EXTRACT FROM DR. ROBT. PLOT'S 'NATURAL HISTORY OF OXFORDSHIRE.'

Ed. 1677, fo., Part VIII., Art. 33, p. 204. (Brit. Mus., 443, i, 5, and 10351, h, 12.)

"33. I must add also a Relation, as strange as 'tis true, of the family of one Captain Wood late of Bampton, now of Brise Norton, Captain in the late Wars for the King. Some whereof before their death have had signal warning given them by a certain knocking, either at the door without, or on a table, or shelves within; the number of strokes and the distance between them, and the place where, for the most part respecting the circumstances of the persons to dye or their deaths themselves, as will easily be collected from the following relation.

"34. The first knocking that was heard, or at least observed, was about a year after the restoration of the King, in the afternoon a little before night, at or upon the door, it being then open, as it was apprehended by Mrs. Elenor Wood, mother to Captain Basil Wood, who only heard it, none being then by or about the house but herself; at which she was very much disturbed, thinking it boded some ill to her or hers, and within fourteen nights after, she had news of the death of her son-in-law Mr. George Smith, who dyed in London.

"35. About three years after that, there were three great knocks given very audibly to all that were then in the house, viz., to the aforesaid Mrs. Elenor Wood, Mr. Basil Wood and his wife Mrs. Hester and some servants: which knocks were so remarkable, that one of the maids came from the well which was about twenty yards from the place, to see what was the matter; and Mrs. Elenor Wood, and another maid that was within the house, saw three great pans of lard shake and totter so upon a shelf in the milk-house that they were like to fall down. Upon this violent knocking, Mr. Basil Wood and his wife being then in the hall, came presently into the milk-house to their mother, where finding her somewhat disturbed, and enquiring the reason, she replied God Almighty only knew the matter, she could tell nothing but she heard the knocking; which being within doors Mr. Basil Wood concluded must be for some of the family at home, that upon the door being for a friend abroad; which accordingly fell out, three of the family, according to the number of the knocks, dying within little more than half a year after; viz., Mrs. Hester Wood, wife to Mr. Basil Wood, a child of Mr. Wood's sister, and Mrs. Elenor Wood his mother.

"36. About August 1674 Mr. Basil Wood, junior, son of Mr. Basil aforesaid, living at Exeter in Devonshire, heard the same kind of knocking, at which being disturbed, he wrote word of it to his father here at Bampton in Oxfordshire: viz., That one Sunday, he and his wife, and her sister and his brother, did distinctly hear upon a Table in their chamber as they stood by it, two several knocks struck as it were with a cudgel, one of them before and the other after morning-prayer, a little before dinner: which letter was shewn to Mr. Wood, senior (as the other knockings before the deaths of any that dyed, were beforehand told), to several neighbouring gentlemen: after which, within about fourteen days, Mrs. Hester Wood, a second wife of Mr. Basil Wood, senior, and about a quarter of a year after, her father, Mr. Richard Lisset, dyed both at Bampton; since which time they have heard nothing more as yet.

"37. Amongst such unaccountable things as these; we may reckon the strange passages that happened at Woodstock in Anno 1649." . . . . .

<sup>2</sup> This match between Alexander Woodd, II., and Elizabeth Onslow (his first wife) was learned first from MSS. of the late Joseph Morris of Shrewsbury (see Preface), who recorded it on his Woodd pedigree, without quoting any "authority" or "evidence." The more recent discovery of Alexander Woodd's Will shows that he married twice, a fact not noted in the Visitation, 1623, signed by his son Peter Woodd.

<sup>29</sup> Blakeway, MS. Bodleian, suggests that she was of the Warin family of Salop. That, however, contradicts the Visitation. On the other hand, the names Basil and Cicely occur in Warin Pedigree before this date.

<sup>30</sup> Milburga. This name it is thought was adopted because it was that of the foundress of the adjacent Monastery of Wenlock. Milburga, dau. of King Merwald, and niece of the Wolphere, King of Mercia, in 680 founded Wenlock Monastery, of which she was the first Abbess, and to whom it was dedicated. She was buried in the Abbey. See her legend in Eyton's 'Antiquities of Salop.'

N.B.—From this point the official copy from the Heralds' College is considerably abridged.

The above pedigree is truly extracted from the Records of the College of Arms, and a few additional and original evidences, as witness my hand this eighth day of February 1891 as one of the officers of the said College.

(Signed) EDWARD BELLASIS, Bluemantle.

[NOTE.—The additions printed in italics are not recorded in the Heralds' College, nor on the roll in possession of H. Woodd from which the above is copied.]

NOTE.—The above pedigree was continued from those of Peter Woodd and Alexander Woodd in the Visitations of Salop, a<sup>o</sup> 1623 and a<sup>o</sup> 1663, and entered in the Records of the College of Arms in the year 1880 by Henry Woodd, Henry Woodd, Jun., and Basil Henry Woodd.

Woodd=Barnham.

Copy of Arms of Sarah, the widow of Charles Woodd A° 1716 (Table XIII.). Taken from an old painting belonging to her and handed down to her great-grandson the late Alexander Woodd (V.) of Boston Road (Table XIV.). The painting, now in the possession of his daughter, Mrs. Henry Taylor of Belmont, Woodbery Down, N., represents the tinctures all incorrectly; the Barnham field is argent and the charges sable. The Pelican should be or, vulning, instead of the arrow, although the use of a crest over the lozenge is of course unwarranted.

ROYAL DESCENT (C).

1 The Herald's Visitations, co. Salop, and all Harl. MSS. for that county, make Sir Nicholas Eyton of Eyton, co. Salop, Kt., to have married "Katherine, dau. of John Talbot, Earl Salop." Some say first Earl. Lawrence Woodd's wife Joan, dau. of Sir Philip Yonge, was grand-dau. of Sir Nicholas Eyton and Katherine Talbot, but as none of the Talbot Pedigrees assign any such daughter to either John Talbot, first Earl or second, by either of their two marriages, no prominence has been given to the Woodd descent therefrom as the foundation for a Royal Descent. There is, however, great probability that this Lady Eyton, Katherine Talbot, was the dau. of the first Earl by his second marriage, as will partly appear in the pedigree. In All Saints' Church, Eyton, Arms of Eyton impaling Talbot were in a window. (Add. MS. 21013.)
2 Said to have been named after his uncle Sir Lewis Talbot, a name not used in the Eyton family before.

<sup>1</sup> This pedigree is taken from Segar's 'Baronagium'; Jacob's 'Peerage', vol. ii.; Glover's 'History Derbyshire', 596-7; Stebbing Shaw's 'Staffordshire', under Drayton Bassett; Foster's 'Yorkshire Pedigrees'. See also Manning and Bray's 'Surrey', vol. iii., p. 32. They say as to Grete, Worcestershire: "This must be a mistake, there is no such place in Nash's 'Worcestershire'. Grete is a hamlet in Winchcomb, Gloucestershire; but there is no Fox to be found in Atkin's or Rudder's 'History of Gloucestershire'."

The arms assigned to the family in these Works are those of Fox of Ludlow, but there appears no connection in the pedigree, and the College of Arms has no record of any descent with these arms.

Arms: Argent, a chevron between three foxes' heads erased gules. Crest: A fox passant gules. Motto: Fidelis esto.

<sup>2</sup> Extract from Calamy and Palmer's 'Nonconformists' Memorial', second edition, vol. iii., 232. Staffordshire: Drayton. "Mr. Timothy Fox of Christ's Coll., Camb., when Dr. S. Bolton was Master. He was born in Birmingham in 1628, and had his school learning there under Mr. Billingsley. After some years spent at Cambridge, he was admitted by the Commissioners of the Great Seal to the Rectory of Drayton, in the room of Mr. John Buckbury, deceased, and was ordained by Mr. Thomas Porter at Whitechurch in Shropshire. He was much beloved in his parish, and though he refused the 'engagement,' he continued till he was ejected by the Bartholomew Act: after which, for the sake of his wife and five small children, he was encouraged by his friends to settle in a neighbouring corporation, where, by his pen and the help of relations, he got a comfortable livelihood, till the Oxford Act forced him to remove and rent a farm in Derbyshire. But afterwards he was imprisoned in Derby jail upon that Act, not for any exercise of religion, but only for coming to see his son, an apprentice in that town. He was apprehended immediately before he sat down, and committed in May 1684, and continued a prisoner till the November following. He was confined a second time when Monmouth was in the West, in Chester jail, with several other neighbouring ministers and gentlemen, without any cause being assigned. After a month's confinement he was discharged, and he and his two sureties giving £600 security for his good behaviour. From the time of his ejection he preached in private, as he had opportunity; and after public liberty was granted, he opened a meeting in his own house at Caldwell in Derbyshire, where he preached twice a day gratis, and catechised. He died in a good old age in May 1710."

* A handsome portrait of Mr. Timothy Fox, painted on the lid of a snuff-box, has been handed down and is in the possession of Henry Woodd. Appears in deeds held by H. Woodd.

The wife's name is omitted in the original.—W. S. S.

"1714 April 4, 14; M. Dec. iv; April 14; April 4 ALEXANDER WOOD son of M<sup>r</sup> Charles Wood and of — his wife was born April 4th, and baptized April the fourteenth 1714 by Francis Thompson D.D. Rector. The Countesse of Oxford and her sister being here as Relations."

The omission of the wife's name, the error M. Dec. 4 in the margin, are so in the original.—W. S. S.

NOTE.—Alexander Woodd (IV.) was grandson and heir of the above Rebekah Barnham (née Myddleton), who was grand-daughter, and in her heir, coheir of the Sir Hugh Myddleton.

"1715 March ye 9th Charles Wood buried in the Chancell Vaulte."

The above three are certified by the Rev. W. SPARROW SIMPSON, D.D., Rector of S<sup>t</sup> Matthew's, Friday Street, London, and in the Register the names, in this instance, are written in large characters, as above.

"In the Vestry Minute Book of the Parish of S<sup>t</sup> Peter, West Cheap, then as now united to the Parish of S<sup>t</sup> Matthew, Friday Street, are Minutes of a joint Meeting of the two Parishes aforesaid, held on June 11, 1707, 'to consult of Methods for Repairing the Parish Church of S<sup>t</sup> Mathewes ffriday streete.' Mr. Charles Wood was present on this occasion, and was nominated as a Member of the Committee for carrying out the work. He was one of the representatives of the Parish of S<sup>t</sup> Matthew, Friday Street.

Signed, W. SPARROW SIMPSON, D.D., F.S.A.,

September 13, 1880.

The above Charles Woodd lived in the Corner House, Friday Street, and Cheapside. He was buried in the Chancel Vault of that Parish Church near Sir Hugh Myddleton his relative (see Certificate). At the recent demolition of that Church no traces of the remains of either were found. Dr. Sparrow Simpson, the Rector, states, however, that all coffin-plates were noted, and that "all the bodies buried in the vaults of St. Matthew, Friday Street, were removed and re-buried in Ilford Cemetery in the autumn of this present year, 1883."

PREFACE.

THESE Pedigrees are compiled from the Heralds' Visitations and from attested parchment and other rolls, issued by the College of Arms in the years 1875, 1880, and 1886, now in the possession of members of the two branches of the family.

Since the last "entry" in the Heralds' College, 1880, several facts have been discovered; these, which have been added to the attested Male Tables, are printed in italics with the "authorities." Subsequent events are distinguished in the same manner.

The Collators of these additions are indebted to the labours of the late Mr. JOSEPH MORRIS of Shrewsbury, whose carefully prepared Salop Pedigrees* have remained in the Town Clerk's Office at Shrewsbury, and are the private property of E. CRESSWELL PEELE, Esq., whose kindness in giving access to these books is acknowledged. These MSS. were first heard of by the Compiler of this Second Edition in the year 1881, when Mr. MORRIS had been dead many years. "He had access to the Town Records, those of the old incorporated societies of Shrewsbury, etc.; he took nothing upon trust" (with which testimony all Salop Antiquarians concur), "and spent a long life in working up Pedigrees of Shropshire families."† Nearly all the fresh information given by him has since been corroborated from the Harleian MSS., Church Registers, the Public Record Office, etc. Certified copies from these sources, together with several old Wills, also recently found, will be seen at the end.

Monumental Inscriptions in Churches, etc.

SHYNETON CHURCH, the earliest place of worship of the Family in Shropshire, was in very bad repair at the beginning of the seventeenth century, to which allusion is made in the Will of Alexander Woodd (II.). At its restoration, long after, nearly all the Inscriptions were destroyed. Alexander Woodd (I.) and Peter Woodd (I.), his son, were both buried in the church. Any Inscriptions to their memory, or to that of many other members of the Family who there rest, no longer exist.

The chancel of ALBERBURY CHURCH contains the mortal remains of Alexander Woodd (II.) and his wife, and probably those of his son and grandson. This church has also been restored, and the only Woodd Memorial therein remaining is that to Basil Woodd, of the White Abbey, and his wife Abigail Leighton.

COPY OF INSCRIPTION ON A TOMB IN THE CHURCH OF BRIZE NORTON, OXFORDSHIRE.

"Here under resteth the body of Eleanor Woodd, buried October 28, 1664, widow of the Right Worshipful Basil Woodd, Dr. of Law, Chancellor of Rochester and High Commissioner, who was buried in St. Michael's Church in Oxon, Nov. 30, 1644, and had issue Basill, Thomas, who being Capt., was slain in the King's Service at Preston, 1648; John, Elc, An., Eliz.

INSCRIPTIONS ON THREE MONUMENTS IN ST. MARY'S (FRONT) CHURCHYARD, PADDINGTON.

Sacred to the Memory of Ann Louisa wife of Mr John Mortlock and eldest daughter of the Rev. Basil Woodd
Died 25th August 1828 aged 42.

During a life of suffering she enjoyed Communion with her God
By her patience humility and consistency glorified Him before others
She died as she had lived looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life.

"Thou art gone to the grave, but we will not deplore thee,
Since God was thy ransom, thy friend, and thy guide,
He gave thee, He took thee, He soon will restore thee,
Where death hath no sting, for the Saviour has died."

Sacred to the Memory of John Mortlock Esq.
Who departed this life August 8th 1837 aged 61 years.

This stone covers the remains of one who rose to wealth by industry, and spent his wealth in acts of Piety and Charity.
The Walls of many a Temple, reared in part by his aid for the worship of God speak for him.

The many widows and orphans who have been supported by his bounty speak for him and are his best commendation and epitaph.

But while he made friends of the Mammon of unrighteousness, His Redeemer's blood not his own alms and offerings
Was his one plea with God. He deeply felt he was a sinner and that the blood of Christ alone could Cleanse him from his sins. To this hope he fled for refuge and continued clinging to the last.

His affectionate wife and only surviving daughter have caused this faithful record to be inscribed on his tomb.

M<sup>rs</sup> Sophia Sarah Woodd 37 years the beloved Wife of the Rev. Basil Woodd who departed this life 16th August 1829 aged 63 years.

In Memory of the pastoral labours,
the unwearied charities,
the meek and lowly spirit,
The holy life and the triumphant death of that faithful Minister of Christ
The Rev. Basil Woodd, M.A.
Rector of Drayton Beauchamp, Bucks and forty-six years Minister of Bentinck Chapel, Marylebone.
Who entered his heavenly rest April 12, 1832
Aged 71 years
His bereaved friends and flock sorrowful yet rejoicing have raised this record of their affection.

Midst so much that was lovely and of good report, he trusted only in divine grace and his Saviour's atoning sacrifice
For pardon and acceptance with God.

Characteristic of his whole life and sentiments his last sermon closed with—

"Faith shall be lost in sight, and hope in enjoyment."

His last text was—

"Christ in you the hope of glory."

The last entry in his diary—

"I come to my God seeking for no reward;
I look only for mercy."

His dying prayer—

"Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace."

And his dying utterance—

"The Lord is letting his servant depart in peace,
I shall soon see thy salvation."

Miscellaneous Documents.

THE WHITE ABBEY.

THIS place having been, after Shinewood, the principal residence, the following summary of Eyton's History of the Foundation, taken from his 'Antiquities of Salop,' vol. vii., p. 91, will be of some interest:—

"This foundation has had various names, such as the New Monastery, the White Monastery, and New Place. It has also, and with little propriety, been called the White Abbey, the Black Abbey,* and the New Abbey. It was never an Abbey in any sense whatever. . . . .

"As many mistakes have been made about its founder and the date of its foundation as about its name. . . . .

"The French Chronicle of Fitz Warin adumbrates the truth in the following passage, descriptive of the conduct of Fulk Fitz Warin, the former outlaw, him whom we know to have been in reality the third Fulk Fitz Warin of his line. 'Fulk' (on his return home from an alleged campaign in Ireland) 'bethought him that he had greatly sinned against God, as by slaughter of people and other great offences, and in remission of his sins founded a priory in the honour of our Lady St. Mary, of the Order of Grandmont,† near Alberbury, in a wood on the river Severn, and it is called the New Abbey; and not long after died Dame Maude de Cause his wife (first), and was interred in this Priory.' (Fitz Warin Chronicle.) We have some proof that the lady here called Maude de Cause was deceased in 1226; according to this evidence we may place therefore the foundation of Alberbury Priory about the year 1220.

"We have two confirmations to this House, one by Henry III., dated at Hereford 2 Dec. 1223, the other by Pope Gregory IX., dated 5 Feb. 1233. . . . .

"Fulk Fitz Warin's second wife was buried at the New Abbey, and Fulk himself, dying a year after, was interred with great honour near the altar of the same Monastery. . . . .

"The Taxation of 1291 makes the Prior of Alberbury's annual income to be in Temporalities £2 7s., and in Moveables £1 9s. The former item is made up of the profits of two carucates of land in Pekenhal, etc.‡ . . . .

"It appears that in 1357 the Bishop of Hereford of that time returned Alberbury Priory as one of the places in his diocese which was exempt from his Episcopal jurisdiction. I do not understand how this came about. The Priory, as an alien house, was at that time in the hands of King Edward III. by reason of his war with France. . . .

"It continued an escheat of the Crown, was leased to two or three persons, and on 11 May 1441 the King (Henry VI.), at the request of Henry Chicheley, Archbishop of Canterbury, granted this suppressed Priory, with all its tithes, advowsons of churches and chapels, in free and perpetual alms to All Souls' College, Oxford, recently founded by the said Archbishop. . . . .

"There was formerly a Chapel, dedicated to St. Stephen, within the site of the Monastery. In 1446 the Bishop of Hereford ordered the College of All Souls to keep this in repair, and to find a Priest to celebrate therein service for the souls of founders and benefactors." . . . .

"For some generations the monks had been Frenchmen sent over from Grandmont. To them we are indebted for the greater portion of the Parish Church (of Alberbury), one of unusual size, and, in the peculiar structure of the tower, they probably had in memory some of their own Norman Churches when they adopted the design known as 'saddle-back,' this being not an uncommon type in their native country, but of which there are only a few in England." M.S.

In this church our ancestors and their families, for five generations, worshipped, were baptized and buried, as the parish registers from 1566 abundantly shew. They are, generally, in excellent preservation, although there are one or two unfortunate breaks.§

The White Abbey and its lands were held of the College of All Souls by the second Alexander Woodd from the year 1566. Before this time he lived at Boreatton, Baschurch, Salop, his father and brothers living at Shynewood. His descendants continued to live in the Abbey until the early part of the eighteenth century. The inventory of the furniture of the * "White," from the colour of the building, which is of white stone. 'Black,' from the black habit of the friars." (Eyton.) [But they seem to have been "White Benedictines."]

† The order of Grandmont, a place in Normandy, had its origin in A.D. 1076, and followed the rule of St. Benedict.

‡ This land became the subject of dispute between Alexander Woodd and Sir E. Leighton, Gryffyth Lloyd, and others. See Will of Alexander Woodd, III.; also Muniments of All Souls' College.

§ Certified transcripts of these registers are on pp. 53, 54. "The bells of Alberbury Church were recast last century at Gloucester. The last record of the navigation of the Severn as far as the White Abbey was when they were brought back." (Parish Book.)

third Alexander Woodd (see following Article) shews the Abbey to have contained at that time some eighteen dwelling and sleeping rooms, of various sizes, besides many places used as kitchen-offices, etc.

In the year 1673-4 Grace Woodd, the daughter of the third Alexander (the sons being minors), paid tax for eight hearths (the average number in the subsidies being about three to each house). After this period the buildings must have rapidly fallen into decay, and but little remains to tell of its former use and proportions.

About thirty years since the work of "restoration" was entrusted, by the College, to a land agent, and, in the words of the vicar of the parish, he appears to have thought of nothing but making a comfortable farmhouse. All the ruins and ruinous parts were cleared away, and it is believed used in the construction of the new farm buildings, etc. The remainder of the Abbey was then carefully covered with plaster and whitewash.

A few arches, doorways, and a stone groined roof, probably belonging to the north aisle of the Chapel, are seen in two bedrooms of the present farmhouse; and a credence table, with piscina, in what is now the dairy, are all that have survived to speak of the past.

Several stone coffins, coins, and other interesting relics have been discovered from time to time.

In August 1879 the Cambrian Archæological Society visited Wattlesborough Hall, Alberbury Church, and the ruins of Fitz Warin's Castle. The party then proceeded to the White Abbey, and Dr. Bloxam pointed out the probable site of the chapter-house, refectory, dormitories, and other parts of the conventual buildings.

In the garden there is a very old, apparently the original, sundial on a stone column.

The present farmer received some members of the family very hospitably, allowing them to enter all the rooms in the Abbey. A sketch of the Abbey was made.

Of SHYNEWOOD, the older Salop seat of the family, less can be said. The perennial beauty of the scenery, however, immediately around Shynewood far surpasses the immediate surroundings of the White Abbey, which are somewhat flat.

The present house has not been in existence more than a century. It is a roomy square red-brick building of two stories, with polished oaken floors and staircase, and lately inhabited by Mr. Bayly, a farmer, through whose kind accommodation some of us were able to enjoy a thorough exploration of this charming and secluded spot. Of the original "Shynewood" no trace remains but the coach-house. Hills, for the most part covered with trees and thick undergrowth, rise immediately all around. A stream, the haunt of the kingfisher, runs at the foot of the lawn in front of the house, having first parted at the side in order to supply the mill still in use, and originally belonging to the estate. The dwelling is some distance from the highroad, between Much Wenlock and Shineton.

"Jackstockinge," mentioned in the will of the first Peter Woodd, is an adjacent property, and once belonged to Shynewood. It is on the left side of the highroad from Wenlock.

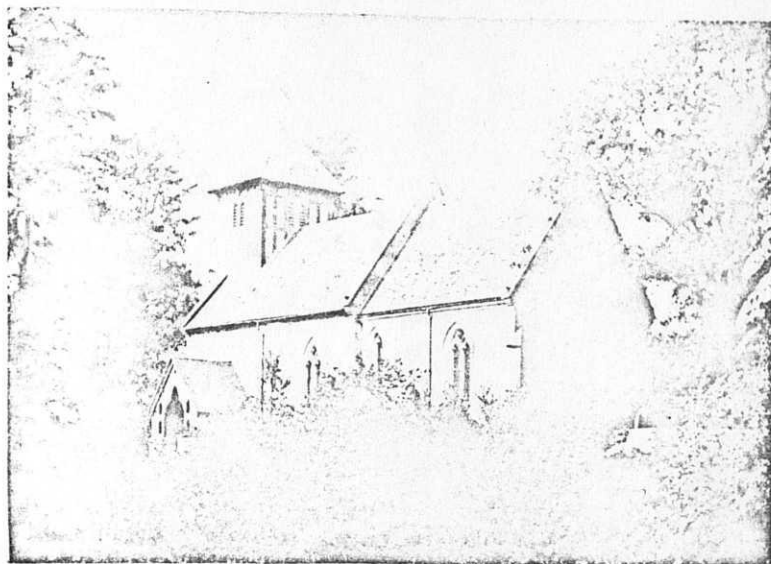

The Alexander Woodd (I.) appears to have been the first to settle here,* and long after the White Abbey became the home, Shynewood was used, it would seem, for second families, etc. In the Pedigree in the Heralds' Visitations, "of Shinewood" is the description given till 1663.

The West Coppice, the residence in 1598 of Henry Woodd, M.D., is about a mile off, and close to Buildwas Abbey. A new house has been built there near the site of the old, which may still be discerned. This place is remarkable for a very long avenue of trained yew-trees, called the "dark walk." This, from the evident great age of the trees, must have existed in the time alluded to.

Miscellanea.

"HOLLY HALL, CO. YORK."

THERE are many places in the county of this name and its equivalent (as Hollin Hall in the parish of Ripon). Morris (see Preface) describes Laurence Woodd as of Holyn Hall, and in an old pedigree of Woodd now at Yarlington House,* the name is spelled Holey, elsewhere Helley Hall. Of Hollings Hall, Ilkley, the seat of the Hebers and Currers, there is a full description in the recent work of Dr. Collyer's 'Ilkley, Ancient and Modern.' But neither of these places are judged to be the Holly Hall of Laurence Woodd. Langdale's 'Dictionary of Yorkshire, West Riding,' gives three places of this name—the above, and Holley Hall in the parish of Penistone, four miles from Penistone and seven from Barnsley.

In 'Nominum Villarum' (Brit. Mus. 2066) Holly Hall is given as the "seat of one private gentleman" in the Hundred of Staincross, Lat. 53°33', Long. 1°25'; this would be between Wakefield, Barnsley, and Sheffield on the east, and Hemsworth and Rotherham on the west, as near as possible to Monk Bretton or Burton Abbey. The churches near this spot are Darton, Royston, Felkirk, and Wolley. In Hunter's 'Doncaster,' vol. ii., 334, parish of Peniston, this same place, apparently, is called Heley Hall. Soon after the time in which Laurence Woodd is computed to have lived, we find several Woods at this spot, notably the earliest known ancestor of Lord Halifax, viz. George Wood of Monk Bretton, who was buried at Royston 1589, and was father of George Wood of Bretton Manor House and John Wood, and grandfather of John, Peter, and others, some of whose descendants resided at Barnsley and Hemsworth. The name George was not common at that period. Morris states in his carefully prepared pedigrees, before referred to, that the elder brother of Alexander Woodd (I.) the third son (Her. Vis.) of Laurence Woodd was George. Laurence del Woodde was succeeded at Longley Hall (about ten miles from Penistone) by his son George.

The above-mentioned particulars of Wood of Hemsworth and Bretton, cited from Hunter, appear to be the only known facts, judging from printed pedigrees, connected with the early generations of that family, whose arms are three savages in fess with clubs. Before the date of these facts, we find one John Wood of Hymsworth in the Lay Subsidies for lands in 1524; Richard Wood is on the same membrane for lands; and in Hunter's 'Doncaster,' ii., 440, is mention (a° 1550) of Richard Wood of Hemsworth. The will of John Wood of Hymsworth was proved at York 21 April 1560; he mentions his wife Isabel and children, Adam, Rachel, Agnes, Frances, and Alice.

* The seat of Thos. Englesby Rogers, Esq., referred to before.

GEORGII WODDE ET ISABELL
UXOR FILIORU' ET FILIARU' SUORUM.

The same arms, without the bordure, are carved on a wooden corbel in situ in Almondbury Church.

It is believed that LAWRENCE WOODD OF HOLLY HALL was collateral with the above family (see remarks thereon, page 1). A full history thereof, with a description of the Church and Hall, will be found in the Rev. Canon Hulbert's 'Annals of Almondbury,' pp. 96, 218-23, and 469. He has also kindly supplied several MS. Notes.

‡ The above Robert Wood (sen.) was elected Mayor of Shrewsbury 1685 in the place of John Wood, who died in his year of office. They both bore arms of Woodd. See Owen and Blakeway's 'History'; and Morris says, in his MSS., "both probably descended from a branch of that ancient family first seated at Shinewood, Salop." If this be so, their first ancestor would have a place on Tables I. and XII. "They were first seated at Hopley, Mytton, etc., as lessees under the Corbets of Moreton Corbet. By degrees they became proprietors of Fitz and Mytton."

§ These arms to Heiward in copy of Dugdale's Visitation of Salop, 1663, now in Brit. Mus., Ad. MS. 21025, page 65.

HATCHMENT OF ROBERT WOOD (II.) AND HIS TWO WIVES, MARGARET HEIWARD (sinister),
AND ANNE HOZIER (dexter).

The above was copied from the original Hatchment which is now in Old St. Chad's, Lady Chapel, at Shrewsbury, having been removed (qu., by whose authority) from the north wall of the nave of Fitz Church, co. Salop. (See Letter of Rev. Wm. Parry, Rector of Fitz.)

A Painting of this is in Parke's Salop Churches at Brit. Mus., Ad. MS. 21180, p. 47; also Rev. E. Williams' Monuments in Shropshire Churches at B.M., Ad. MS. 21236.

Wood of Moreton Corbet.

Compiled from the Letter of the Rev. ROBERT FAULKNER WOOD, Vicar of Moreton Corbet, co. Salop, Nov. 1881, and Parke's M.I.'s.

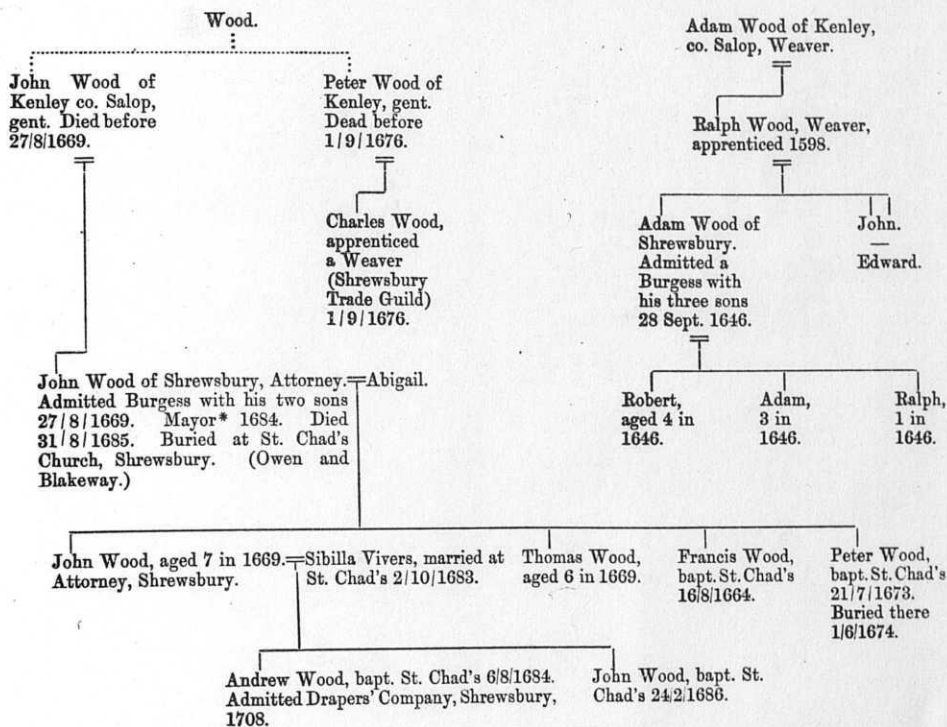

The above family has also borne the arms of WOODS. Mr. R. F. Wood, Vicar of Moreton Corbet, says they have been handed down. The Rev. F. W. Kittermaster, in his 'Salop Arms,' etc., places the above family as present Representative of "Woodd of Shynewood" (!), but no proof of the descent is forthcoming. He appears to assume it because the arms are used, and the family live in Shropshire. The descent is not denied.

Wood of Kenley, co. Salop.

Compiled from the Morris Pedigrees at Shrewsbury, Owen and Blakeway, etc.

Peter Wood of Kenley.
Lay Subsidies, 167-85.
A<sup>o</sup> 1593.

This John Wood died during his year of office, and Robert Wood was elected to complete his predecessor's year. See Wood of Mytton and Fitz. Morris says both were probably descended from branches of the ancient family of same name, first seated at Shinewood, near Much Wenlock.

Notes.

Comprising Additions and a few Corrections, together with some Jottings referring to persons believed to be connected with these Pedigrees, but for whom no "place" has yet been found.

HEREFORD WILLS.

In a more recent search made (October 1886) in this Probate Court, in the hope of finding the Will of Peter Woodd II. and others, it was seen that the 1st Index and Act book (in one) begins 1662. No document of any sort exists for the period of 1641–1660. There is an Index of Inventories from 1628 to 1640.

From 1662 to 1732 there appear (in addition to the Will of Alexander Wood III. 1672) Edward, 31 January 1680, Administration only. Thomas of Walton, co. Salop, Will 10 March 1693, proved 8 December 1696; wife Jane, son Thomas, and "6 other children." Thomas, 27 July 1706, Administration; wife Elizabeth. Thomas of Avenbury, co. Hereford, yeoman, Will 3 September 1713, proved 21 October 1713; wife Maria (?); sons John, James, Anthony; daughters Sarah and Anne.

The Will Office at St. Asaph (for Oswestry, etc.) has also been searched, but without result.

In the Copy Herald's Visitation, Salop, in the Museum of Shrewsbury, there is a Note on the Yonge Pedigree (see Table XI., ante) to the match between the daughter of Sir Philip Yonge and Laurentius . . . that the next page of the original was cut out. If this is so, the fact that the Christian name of Laurence Woodd alone appears on the Yonge Pedigree in all the Harl. MSS. (which were probably copied from one source) is accounted for.
